Fatigue Rules Brieser Safety & Health Manual Section 3 Job Descriptions

40. Never work more than 14 days in a row without a fatigue day. Notify your job foreman on your 13th day of working without a day off so a fatigue day can be scheduled. Working more than 14 days without a day off is grounds for dismissal. You are also responsible for notifying your job foremen if you are fatigued to the point of not being able to perform your job tasks.
41. If working a 4-10's work schedule and you change jobsite locations during the week, it is the employee's responsibility to inform the job foreman when you reach 40 straight time hours for the week.
